CHINESE MAY DECLARE WAR ON JAPANESE

COMMANDERS URGE ACTION; JAPAN MAY COURTMARTIAL TWO

Changes Attitude As Result of Firm U. S. Position

PEIPING, Jan. 6.—Concerted Chinese military action for declaration of war against Japan loomed today. The various military commanders subordinate to Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang, former governor of Manchuria, prepared to dispatch a telegram to the Nanking government insisting upon immediate steps to halt the Japanese advance or open admission that a state of war exists. The telegram, which also will be signed by military commanders of all the northern provinces, will point out that China is unable to depend upon the League of Nations and that "even defeat is better than the present drifting."

Military dissatisfaction over Nanking's failure to achieve a diplomatic solution of the Manchurian problem has been growing for weeks.

MUKDEN, Jan. 6.—The Japanese military headquarters here, stirred by the firm attitude of the United States in refusing to accept immediately its expression of "regrets" over the Chamberlain incident, today altered its somewhat apathetic position and announced that the two sentries accused of beating the American consul might "possibly" be courtmartialled.

A military spokesman informed International News Service that the two sentries would face military tribunal if sufficient evidence were found in a new investigation of the case which today was in full swing.

Today's attitude of the army headquarters was much different from that which marked its first handling of the case, when it was considered "closed" after a brief interview between the American and Japanese counsels here.

TOKYO, Jan. 6.—Answering a request by the United States Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson for a full report of the circumstances surrounding the assault upon American Consul Culver B. Chamberlain, the Tokyo government today forwarded the details as related to it by the Mukden military headquarters.

Contained in the report was a denial that the Japanese ambassador to Washington, Katsuj De-buchi, had been instructed to "humbly apologize" for the incident. He was told simply to express his regrets, the advice declared.

PUBLIC PLANNING AUTO BUYING DRIVE

DETROIT, Jan. 6.—Automotive manufacturers today said definite indications that the American public is beginning a new automobile buying drive. Two of the industry's foremost firms reported the best December records in years.

Sales of more than 8,000 cars last month caused the best December business of the Buick Motor Co. since 1928. The retail value of the cars exceeded $1,100,000.

Graham-Paige Motors Corporation reported production of new models last month was the largest December output since 1925 and the largest single month's production of eight cylinder cars in the history of the company which has been building eight for five years.

Graham-Paige orders on hand today are twice as many as at the same date last year and the original January production schedule has been greatly increased.

PHYSICIANS PASS STATE BOARD TEST

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 6.—Thirty student physicians and four student osteopaths successfully passed the December medical examinations, the state medical board announced today.

E. J. Amburge, of the University of St. Louis, at St. Louis, Mo., and G. B. Taylor, of University of Rochester, at Rochester, N. Y., tied for the high grade among the doctors, with a percentage of 86.

SENATE COMMITTEE WILL INVESTIGATE

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 6.—Investigation of Ohio's penal and welfare institutions will be launched January 13 by the Ohio senate committee on prison and welfare administration, according to an announcement today by Senator Joseph N. Ackerman of Cleveland.

Among the institutions to be investigated, it was expected, are the Mansfield Reformatory, Lancaster Reform School, the Marysville Prison for Women, and the Ohio Penitentiary.

Young, 66, mother of six girls and five boys, hoped her sons would kill themselves before they were captured for the murder of six peace officers near Springfield, Mo., and two of the sons carried out their mother's wish when they were trapped by Houston, Texas police. She is shown above with two of her daughters, who are also under arrest. They are Mrs. Albert Conley, left and Venita Young.

ABOARD SEARCHING PLANE OVER BLUE MOUNTAINS NEAR CARLISLE, Pa., Jan. 6.—We fought our way through fog, rain and a whirling dervish headwind over Sterrett's Gap today in a determined search for Mrs. Ruth Stewart, St. Louis society matron and aviation enthusiast, and Mrs. Debbie Stanford, of Toronto, Ont., whom Mrs. Stewart was piloting from St. Louis to Havana.

Both women were unheard from since their plane, roaring along side-by-side with the ship in which I am riding, sank its nose into a heavy fog bank over the gap last night. Our plane, piloted by Gentry Shelton, of St. Louis and carrying Mrs. Stewart's parents as passengers, smashed through the fog bank and hurtled along to Harrisburg and safety.

The Stewart ship, which dove into the low hanging cloud at full speed, failed to emerge. Since that time nothing has been heard from either woman.

With four other planes placed at our disposal by airport and gasoline company officials, we roared off from the Harrisburg airport at 9:35 a. m. today in the vanguard of the air search. We climbed steadily, circled the airport and headed directly west for the broken ridges of the Blue Mountains.

Shelton zoomed along at a terrific speed until he had reached Carlisle from where we swung sharply north for Sterrett's gap, a jagged break in the rolling hills

GREAT BRITAIN WOULD DELAY ARMS CONFERENCE IS LEARNED

LONDON, Jan. 6.—Fearing that the coming Geneva disarmament conference is doomed to certain failure, and that its failure will set back actual achievement of disarmament at least ten years, certain British political leaders and others recently urged Arthur Henderson to initiate a proposal for adjournment at the opening session.

This was learned exclusively by International News Service today on the highest authority. The proposals were not made formally but were suggested privately to Henderson himself, who will preside at the Geneva session.

Henderson, who was named to preside at the conference when he was Britain's foreign minister under the labor government and who was defeated with it, has been cold to the proposal, it was said.

"It has been repeatedly pointed out to him that disarmament is impossible under present conditions, and that he would hasten actual disarmament and perform a great service to humanity by recommending postponement," the informant told International News Service.

"Great nations recognize the fact but none has the courage to propose adjournment and bear the onerous accusations which would be inevitable as a result."

EX-KING IS FAVORED

FONTAINEBLEAU, France, Jan. 6.—Former King Alfonso is receiving a decided cut in rates at the fashionable Hotel Savoy here where the exiled Spanish monarch and his family are staying, it was learned today.

The most seriously injured was the undertaker's wife, Mrs. George Kianer, who was hurled to the floor from her sickbed in a room one floor above the undertaking shop.

Two pedestrians were thrown off their feet by the blast and were cut by flying glass as the front of the shop collapsed.

Windows for blocks around were shattered by the repercussion and people came running out of their homes in fright.

YOUTHS WHO ADMIT BURNING EIGHT TO BE ACCUSED OF MURDER

Reform School Pair Confess To Firing Farm House

GALLIPLIS, O., Jan. 6.—First degree murder charges will be filed either late today or tomorrow against two youthful Lancaster Industrial School inmates who have allegedly confessed to firing a farmhouse near here last spring which resulted in the death of a father and his seven children. County Prosecutor Harry M. Miller declared today.

Preliminary investigation has shown that Albert Reimer, 15, of Gallipolis, and Ellsworth Mowrer, 17, of Bucyrus, the two industrial school inmates, were truthful in details of their purported confession to the crime, Miller said.

Formal charges, however, will not be leveled until officials are absolutely certain that the two boys were responsible for the halocaust. Reimer and Mowrer are now serving terms in the industrial school on charges of automobile theft.

Gruesome details of the horrid crime—plotted for revenge—were checked one by one today by Miller, assisted by Sheriff Charles Swanson of Gallia County.

The victims of the crime were James White, 59, against whom the boys declared in their confession they held a grudge because he beat one of them during a fist fight, and White's seven children. They perished when their log cabin home was swept by fire last April. Only one of White's children, escaped the halocaust. He was George, 12.

The alleged confession to the crime was given by the two boys when they became conscious-stricken by their deed. They first told their frightful story to George H. Lamb, assistant superintendent of the industrial school. Later they repeated the details to Gallia County officials.

While authorities progressed warily in their investigation, hinting it might be possible the youths were seeking publicity or a temporary change of environment, they were inclined to attach significance to the similarity between the boys' statements and the actual events of the disastrous blaze.

The youths claimed they started the fire on April 4 when it actually occurred on April 7, Swanson explained. Few discrepancies existed otherwise, however.

According to Swanson, the boys informed him that they visited the White Cabin, located in a wooded section near here, early in the morning and first nailed all doors and windows. Assured that they had blocked all avenues of escape, they then ignited the building.

Industrial school officials revealed that the youths were at liberty at the time of the crime was committed. Reimer had been released a short time before while Mowrer was ostensibly on a "bumming trip." They were arrested later for automobile thefts and sent to the industrial school.

School officials said the two boys were "model prisoners" having never caused any unnecessary trouble during their confinement.

THIRTEEN CAUGHT IN BUCYRUS RAID

BUCYRUS, O., Jan. 6.—Declaring they have order to "clean up the town," seven persons, said to be "professional raiders," swooped down upon Bucyrus last night and today with forty-five warrants and caused the arrest of thirteen alleged liquor law violators.

The raids were conducted under the direction of B. J. Liccardi of Toledo, and were understood to climax several weeks of secret, undercover sleuthing during which evidence was obtained by agents under the guise of Christmas card salesmen.

Ministers and lawyers of Bucyrus were said to be behind the move to "clean up the town." The campaign, it was understood, was directed against all vice, gambling and liquor law violators.

SCHOOLS CHARTERED

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 6.—Granting of charters to twelve high schools and recognition of four private and parochial high schools were announced at the state department of education today by Director of Education Beverly O. Skinner.

RASKOB AGAIN ASKS DEMOCRATS FOR WET PLANK IN PLATFORM

Threatens Split May Follow Indefinite Stand On Issue

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—The Democratic party must either grapple courageously and sensibly with the prohibition issue in 1932 or run the risk of a definite split between North and South—and the formation of a liberal third party.

With this as his warning and his text, John J. Raskob, national chairman, appealed again to his party today to incorporate in its platform a plank pledging the people an opportunity to vote for a change, preferably through the medium of his "home rule" plan of liquor control. Briefly, this plan would amend the eighteenth amendment so as to exempt from its provisions those states which by referendum vote to assume control of their own liquor problem within their own borders. This would leave those states desiring to remain dry still the protection of the federal police powers in the original eighteenth amendment.

To support his contention that a majority of the party is opposed to prohibition in its present form, and to impress the national committee which meets here this week, Raskob made public the results of his recent poll of the 77,500 persons who contributed funds to the party in 1928.

Replies received to date, he reported, total 25,578, and of this number 93 per cent favor submitting the prohibition question to the people for decision.

"Some claim," he said, "the poll necessarily shows a preponderant wet sentiment because the bulk of the contribution came from wet states. There undoubtedly is a great deal of truth in this state, but could anyone have predicted:

"1. That 93 out of every 100 contributors favor a short, concise platform declaring the party's determination to restore our liberties and the spirit of the constitution through recognizing state's rights, home rule, decentralization at Washington, and the cutting of riotous national expenditures with consequent relief from excessive taxation.

"2. That 93 out of every 100 contributors favor submitting the prohibition question to the people for decision.

"3. That 95 out of every 100 contributors favor having all future amendments to the constitution ratified by the people instead of by the legislatures of the various states.

"4. That 80 out of every 100 contributors favor a congressional resolution giving the people opportunity to vote on the home rule amendment to the constitution.

"5. That 79 out of every 100 contributors favor a congressional resolution giving the people opportunity to vote on either the home rule or straight repeal amendment.

"6. That 91 out of every 100 contributors favor a congressional resolution giving the people opportunity to vote on either the home rule or straight repeal amendment.

"7. And that only twenty-two out of every 100 believe that other economic issues will be so overwhelming in 1932 that the Democratic platform can successfully ignore the prohibition question with its economic problems by remaining silent or by adopting a mere law enforcement plank as was done in the 1928 convention."

For himself, Chairman Raskob said he did not favor the party adopting either "a so-called wet plank." He favors merely the pledge that the people would be given an opportunity to vote if the Democrats are returned to power. Nor did he favor a wine and beer plank.

Even the Southern dry states, four of which Hoover carried in 1928, voted in favor of Raskob's poll of contributors heavily in favor of resubmitting the question.

The long desired two-mile extension of paying from a point where the concrete portion of the Xenia-Fairfield Road ends, westerly to state route 69 in Osborn, is included in 400 miles of important county and township roads added to the state highway system Wednesday by Highway Director O. W. Merrill.

TORTURE BURGLARS INDICTED BY GRAND JURY HERE TUESDAY

Nineteen True Bills Reported After Two Day Session

Burglary indictments against six suspects held responsible for torturing two elderly men and looting the country home of Charles Monnet, south of Yellow Springs, of property valued at $619.50 November 20 were among nineteen true bills reported by the January grand jury at the close of a two-day session Tuesday afternoon.

The six men indicted separately are: Ralph Morrow, 38, owner of the Osborn Hotel; A. B. Malotte, 37, proprietor of an Osborn restaurant; Samuel Johnson, 29, R. R. No. 9, Dayton; Lewis Liming, 38, near Osborn; Clayton Grissom, 21, Osborn; and Waldo Baker, 43, Arcanum, O.

Other indictments returned follow:

Theodore Stevens and Harry Vaughn, charged with burglary and larceny in connection with the theft of fourteen chickens from George Lee December 8.

H. McKelly, accused of appropriating for his own use an auto valued at $225, belonging to the Lang Chevrolet Co., last July 15.

Charles Mallory and John Lloyd Ayres, accused of grand larceny as a sequel to theft of personal property valued at $48.76 from Harry Shaffer last October 26.

William Lauderback, indicted for issuing a fraudulent check for $3 November 22 to Frank Hughes without funds in the Williamsport, O. National Bank.

Leroy Turner, accused of a statutory offense committed against a 14-year-old girl.

Thomas and Herbert Hawkins, brothers, and Boyd Medkiff, alleged to have stolen a battery and auto tools from the garage of Curtis Cousins December 27, are charged with burglary and larceny.

I. W. Planck, indicted for obtaining money under false pretenses, is claimed to have defrauded The American Loan and Realty Co. of $185 by obtaining a loan for this amount and giving a chattel mortgage on property he did not own last July 8.

C. W. Sweeney, indicted on two counts of forgery, one for forging and the other for passing a bogus check for $38.92, signed with the name "T. M. Thomas," made payable to S. W. James and marked for "hogs." The check was on the Miami Deposit Bank at Yellow Springs.

Vern Wilson, indicted for burglary and larceny and alleged to have stolen a dozen chickens from D. H. Keller January 2.

Disposing of an unusually heavy criminal docket, the grand jury considered a total of twenty-five cases, examined more than thirty witnesses and ignored six cases, those of Carl Harris, H. H. Mansfield, Paul Neff, Lawrence A. Hunt and two cases against Calvin Hunt.

W. C. Downs acted as foreman of the jury which, after the customary inspection of the county jail, made the customary recommendations that "improved ventilation and more light" should be provided for the inmates.

Prosecuting Attorney Marcus McCall announced a number of the men under indictment will probably be arraigned before Common Pleas Judge R. L. Gowdy Thursday morning.

DAUGHTERS GET ESTATE

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Jan. 6.—An estate of $199,627, of which $42,582 was in cash and $117,916 in securities, was left by John D. "Bonsetter" Reese, who died here November 20, probate court records revealed today. The estate was left to Reese's two daughters, Mrs. L. M. Reese and Mrs. L. M. Reese.

PLANES AND POSSES SEARCH MOUNTAINS FEARING AIR CRASH

Society Woman's Ship Disappears Into Cloud Bank

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 6.—Pilots Lee Dice and Howard Bradley, of Bettis Field, hopped off from here this morning to participate in the search for Mrs. Ruth Stewart, wealthy St. Louis society aviatrix and her companion, Mrs. Debbie Stanford, of Toronto, feared lost today in the mountains between Carlisle and Harrisburg.

Both women flyers failed to arrive at the Harrisburg airport after leaving Bettis Field here yesterday on their hop from St. Louis to New York from where they planned to fly to South America.

CARLISLE, Pa., Jan. 6.—Poses comprised of farmers, deputy sheriffs and volunteer searchers beat through rain-soaked mountains near Sterrett's Gap today for traces of an airplane piloted by Mrs. Ruth Stewart, prominent St. Louis society matron, and carrying Mrs. Debbie Stanford of Toronto, Ont., which vanished over the gap last night.

Mrs. Stewart had planned to stop at Harrisburg overnight and then continue on to New York to pilot Mrs. Stanford to Havana.

First word of the unexplained disappearance of the plane was flashed here when an accompanying plane, piloted by Gentry Shelton of St. Louis and carrying Mrs. Stewart's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Woerner, as passengers, swooped down at Harrisburg airport.

Shelton said the two planes, which left Pittsburgh yesterday afternoon, plunged into a cloud bank, flying side by side.

When Shelton's ship nosed through the mist, he said, the other plane had disappeared.

All airports along the Pittsburgh-Harrisburg route reported no trace of the missing plane. Officials at the Penn-Harris airport and the Harrisburg airport at Harrisburg, and many officers at the army field at Middletown said no orders had been received to send searching planes aloft.

It was pointed out that searching planes would be of little help in locating the missing plane because of the cold rain sweeping this section, making visibility extremely poor.

YOUTHFUL BANDITS SOUGHT IN INDIANA

DESHLER, O., Jan. 6.—Convinced that they escaped into Indiana, Henry County authorities today sought the aid of officials of that state in apprehending four youthful bandits who robbed the Deshler State Bank of $4,000 here yesterday.

Although all trace of the gang, ranging in age from 12 to 20 years, was lost, eye-witnesses informed authorities they headed in the direction of Fort Wayne after staging the hold-up while the town marshal and other citizens stood nearby. With this as an only clue, authorities patrolled highways, searching for some isolated spot in which the group may have established a hang-out.

While the youths made no attempt to conceal their identity, victims of the hold-up admitted they wouldn't recognize their assailants. In the confusion they failed to note the bandits' features, they said.

LEARN CEDARVILLE NATIVE IS KILLED

"2. That 93 out of every 100 contributors favor submitting the prohibition question to the people for decision.

"3. That 95 out of every 100 contributors favor having all ratifications to the constitution ratified by the people instead of by the legislatures of the various states.

TORTURE BURGLARS INDICTED BY GRAND JURY HERE TUESDAY

Nineteen True Bills Reported After Two Day Session

Burglary indictments against six suspects held responsible for torturing two elderly men and looting the country home of Charles Monnet, south of Yellow Springs, of property valued at $619.50 November 20 were among nineteen true bills reported by the January grand jury at the close of a two-day session Tuesday afternoon.

The six men indicted separately are: Ralph Morrow, 38, owner of the Osborn Hotel; A. B. Malotte, 37, proprietor of an Osborn restaurant; Samuel Johnson, 29, R. R. No. 9, Dayton; Lewis Liming, 35, near Osborn; Clayton Grieson, 21, Osborn; and Waldo Baker, 43, Arcanum, O.

Other indictments returned follow:

Theodore Stevens and Harry Vaughn, charged with burglary and larceny in connection with the theft of fourteen chickens from George Lee December 8.

H. McKelly, accused of appropriating for his own use an auto valued at $225, belonging to the Lang Chevrolet Co., last July 15.

Charles Mallory and John Lloyd Ayres, accused of grand larceny as a sequel to theft of personal property valued at $48.76 from Harp Shaffer last October 26.

William Lauderbach, indicted for issuing a fraudulent check for $3 November 22 to Frank Hughes without funds in the Williamsport, O. National Bank.

Lefroy Turner, accused of a statutory offense committed against a 14-year-old girl.

Thomas and Herbert Hawkins, brothers, and Boyd Medkiff, alleged to have stolen a battery and auto tools from the garage of Curtis Cousins December 27, are charged with burglary and larceny.

I. W. Plancik, indicted for obtaining money under false pretenses, is claimed to have defrauded The American Loan and Realty Co. of $185 by obtaining a loan for this amount and giving a chattel mortgage on property he did not own last July 8.

C. W. Sweeney, indicted on two counts of forgery, one for forging and the other for passing a bogus check for $38.92, signed with the name "T. M. Thomas," made payable to S. W. James and marked for "hogs." The check was on the Miami Deposit Bank at Yellow Springs.

Vern Wilson, indicted for burglary and larceny and alleged to have stolen a dozen chickens from D. H. Ketter January 2.

Disposing of an unusually heavy criminal docket, the grand jury considered a total of twenty-five cases, examined more than thirty witnesses and ignored six cases, those of Carl Harris, H. H. Mansfield, Paul Neff, Lawrence A. Hunt and two cases against Calvin Blunt.

W. C. Downs acted as foreman of the jury while the customary inspection of the county jail, made the customary recommendation that "improved ventilation and more light" should be provided for the inmates.

Prosecuting Attorney Marcus McCallister announced a number of the men under indictment will probably be arraigned before Common Pleas Judge R. L. Gowdy Thursday morning.

PLANES AND POSSES SEARCH MOUNTAINS FEARING AIR CRASH

Society Woman's Ship Disappears Into Cloud Bank

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 6.—Pilots Lee Dice and Howard Bradley, of Bettis Field, hopped off from here this morning to participate in the search for Mrs. Ruth Stewart, wealthy St. Louis society aviatrix and her companion, Mrs. Debbie Stanford, of Toronto, feared lost today in the mountains between Carlisle and Harrisburg.

Both women flyers failed to arrive at the Harrisburg airport after leaving Bettis field yesterday on their hop from St. Louis to New York from where they planned to fly to South America.

CARLISLE, Pa., Jan. 6.—Posses comprised of farmers, deputy sheriffs and volunteer searchers beat through rainsoaked mountains near Sterrett's Gap today for traces of an airplane piloted by Mrs. Ruth Stewart, prominent St. Louis society matron, and carrying Mrs. Debbie Stanford of Toronto, Ont., which vanished over the gap last night.

Mrs. Stewart had planned to stop at Harrisburg overnight and then continue on to New York to plot Mrs. Stanford to Havana.

First word of the unexplained disappearance of the plane was flashed here when an accompanying plane, piloted by Gentry Shelton of St. Louis and carrying Mrs. Stewart's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Woerner, as passengers, swooped down at Harrisburg airport.

Shelton said the two planes, which left Harrisburg yesterday afternoon, plunged into a cloud bank at the gap, flying side by side. When Shelton's ship nosed through the mist, he said, the other plane had disappeared.

All airports along the Pittsburgh-Harrisburg route reported no trace of the missing plane. Officials at the Penn-Harris airport and the Harrisburg airport at Harrisburg, and many officers at the army field at Middletown said no orders had been received to send searching planes aloft.

It was pointed out that searching planes would be of little help in locating the missing plane because of the cold rain sweeping this section, making visibility extremely poor.

YOUTHFUL BANDITS SOUGHT IN INDIANA

DESHLER, O., Jan. 6.—Convinced that they escaped into Indiana, Henry County authorities today sought the aid of officials of that state in apprehending four youthful bandits who robbed the Deshler State Bank of $4,000 here yesterday.

Although all trace of the gang, ranging in age from 12 to 20 years, was lost, eye-witnesses informed authorities they headed in the direction of Fort Wayne after staging the hold-up while the town marshal and other citizens stood nearby. With this as an only clue, authorities patrolled highways, searching for groups isolated spots in which the group may have established a hang-out.

While the youths made no attempt to conceal their identity, victims of the hold-up admitted they wouldn't recognize their assailants. In the confusion they failed to note the bandits' features, they said.

EUROPE LACKS SPIRIT FOR BIG UNDERTAKINGS SAYS MORGAN

Students and members of the faculty of Antioch College, Yellow Springs heard the impression of Europe gathered by Arthur E. Morgan, president of the college, in his travels abroad during the past six months at an assembly Tuesday President Morgan, who returned to Yellow Springs for the holidays, declared:

"Any great change in human affairs in Europe is going to be very difficult and very slow. The continent is not like America. I talked to various people about the possibility of a United States of Europe, merging all nations into one family, and the universal answer was that, though the establishment of such an order would be a real advance, it could not be brought about for many, many years."

"I was interested in the origin of that feeling of hesitation, so different from the American spirit. I do not believe that the character of Europeans differs from that of Americans; Europe is genetically vigorous and young. However, there is a temper of cowardice and compromise, a shrinking before great undertakings. This retreating before circumstances may be better understood through a view of the history of Europe, since a set of mind definitely fixed among a people will continue for generations."

"The severity of the Roman government which formerly controlled the greater part of the continent made anything like courage or independence almost equal to suicide. Men lived by servility and cowardice. Later came the Inquisition, and its driving ruthlessness, though based on a fine purpose, rendered any slight divergence from standard thought practically sure death. This continual opposition to individual action under which the nations of Europe have lived for centuries has affected them deeply. Nor is this compulsion all in the past; there is no room today for independent thinking in Italy or in Russia, to name only two instances. Perhaps half Europe lives now where courage is somewhat synonymous with suicide."

"In addition, extreme poverty, in a degree almost unimaginable to us, has been the lot of most continental peoples for hundreds of years. We are having hard times, but our adversity would be prosperity to Europe. The narrow margin of subsistence for a large part of the population has not left much range for independent action. It has cut down the spirit of adventure, of daring, and of experimentation."

"Compared with that of Europe, our background is one of freedom and security. It is not often that such an opportunity for responsible independence comes to man. America has both intensity of drive and universality of vision. The discovery of a new continent made possible the combination of these qualities in our nation. If we allow our chance to slip by, where is the next region for daring? Where could there be a better place or a better time?"

GREINER SPEAKS AT FOODY LEGION POST MEETING TUESDAY

Details of a yacht race across the Atlantic Ocean with Spain as the destination were recounted by E. E. Greiner, Springfield, Legionnaire, vice-president of the Legion-Citizens Bank and president of the Buffalo Road Roller Co. in Springfield, guest speaker at the regular meeting of Foody Post, No. 95, American Legion, at post hall Tuesday night.

Mr. Greiner, who is a candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress, entertained the Legionnaires with a humorous talk in which he told of winning the transatlantic race some years ago, and then meeting royalty in Spain.

A final report of the membership committee of which Harry M. Smith was chairman, submitted at the meeting, revealed that nearly 200 ex-service men have been signed up for 1932.

After discharging the committee, Commander Paul Halder charged the Legion post as a whole with the task of continuing an energetic campaign in order to reach or surpass the quota of 300 new members. This goal for the drive was assigned the local post recently by Paul Herbert, Columbus, state department commander, on a visit here.

Announcement was also made that the American Legion will assume full responsibility for an appropriate Xenia observance February 22, commemorating the bi-centennial of the birth of George Washington. An elaborate program is being planned for the community and a separate observance will be arranged at the O. S. and S. O. Home.

A delegation of Legionnaires from the Miamisburg, O. post, present at the meeting, enlisted the support of the Xenia post in the hope of influencing the selection of Miamisburg as the city where the third district Legion conference would be held next summer. The succeeding convention city will be decided upon at the May conference and Miamisburg is making a strong bid for it. The Xenia post promised to vote in favor of Miamisburg.

REV. STEWART USES STORY OF PASSOVER AS SERMON SUBJECT

The Rev. Ralph E. Stewart, "radio preacher of the South," will use the Feast of the Passover story recorded in Exodus and incidents that precede and follow it for his sermon subject, "When I See the Blood," at evangelistic services at the First Baptist Church Wednesday evening. Taking as his subject Tuesday evening "A Most Important Thing," the Rev. Mr. Stewart said, "The most important thing is to know your sins are forgiven. Some people don't seem to be sure whether they are on their way to heaven or hell or whether they are Christians or sinners. ## Fewer, Less Severe Colds With "Colds-Control" Plan

Discovery By Makers of Vick's VapoRub Makes Possible Better "Control-of-Colds" in the Home.

HIGH COSTS REDUCED

Relief from much of the burden imposed by colds is now available in every home. The Vick Plan for better "Control-of-Colds" lessens the number, the severity and the duration of colds. It reduces the family's "Cold-Tax" in money, loss of time and health.

A New Vick Discovery made possible by Vicks VapoRub—based on a new idea for "preventing" colds, this new Vick formula is an ideal companion to VapoRub, the modern way of "treating" colds. Used together, they aid and supplement each other in the Vick Plan for better "Control-of-Colds," which follows:

1—Before a Cold Starts. Watch yourself whenever you have been exposed to anything that you know is apt to give you a cold, such as—

Contact with others having fresh colds—crowds, stuffy ill-ventilated rooms, public places—a night on a Pullman or a dusty automobile ride—sudden changes in temperature—inhalation smoke, dust, gases—excesses in living, such as over-eating, smoking or drinking, which reduce body resistance—after a hard day when you are over-tired.

Then—if you feel that stuffy, sneezy irritation of the nasal passages, Nature's usual signal that a cold is coming on—use Vicks Nose Drops at once—just a few drops up each nostril. Repeat every hour or so if needed. This will prevent many colds by stopping them before they get beyond the nose and throat—where most colds start.

2—After a Cold Starts. At night, massage the throat and chest well with Vicks VapoRub (now available in white "stainless" form, if you prefer). Spread on thick and cover with warm flannel. Leave the bed-clothing loose around the neck so that the medicated vapors arising can be inhaled all night long.

If the air-passages are badly clogged with mucus, melt some VapoRub in a bowl of hot water and inhale the steaming vapors for several minutes. (If there is a cough, you will like the new Vicks Cough Drop—actually medicated with ingredients of Vicks VapoRub.)

During the day—any time, and place—use Vicks Nose Drops every few hours as needed. This gives you full 24-hour treatment and without the risks of too much internal "dosing" which so often upsets digestion—especially of children.

Every drugist in the United States is offering Vicks Nose and Throat Drops and Vicks VapoRub on the following trial guarantee: Use together as directed in the Vick Plan for better "Control-of-Colds." Unless you are delighted with results, your drugist is authorized to refund your money.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

There is nothing better for a man, than that he should eat and drink, and that he should make his soul enjoy good in his labour. This also I saw, that it was from the hand of God.—Ecclesiastes, II, 24.

MOURNERS FEW

The most diabolical of soundrels has passed on. When they buried old man 1931 grief-stricken mourners were few and the crying towels were conspicuously absent.

Although the actuality may remain unchanged for a time, divisions like years, weeks and months are the staunchest allies of hope. Today brings yesterday's oblivion and with the dawn of the today of 1932 hope calls us to blot memories of 1931 from our minds.

Time is the most inexorable of all things. It goes on and on. You can't hurry it nor speed it up nor above all eliminate it. If the latter were true, the 1931 calendars would never have been printed.

If the theory of heredity is not proven in life itself it surely is emphatically set forth in the years. The succeeding year is unmistakably the progeny of its immediate ancestor. 1930 was a doleful period but its offspring heightened the dour characteristics of its parent.

It is hoped though, 1932 will kick over the traces and rebel against family ties.

One shouldn't speak evil of the dead and despite his ill-starred career, 1931 wasn't thrown into the discard without bequeathing something worthwhile.

The departed year, among other things, by its nature betrayed a certain increasing softness in the people. It was a trying period, maybe, but the wailing and moaning were entirely disproportionate to the pain.

Unprecedented prosperity and its attendant increase of the precarious material joys was the yardstick by which we gauged our happiness.

The true essentials of well-being, which were ours in 1931 as well as in any other year, were completely overlooked. Health, peace, and safety were enjoyed last year, but they were taken for granted.

Interludes like 1931 strip the dollar-and-cents superficialities from the surface and acquaint us once more with the inner values.

But the future promises much brighter things.

IS THERE A LIMIT?

Now that an airplane has been driven at over 400 miles an hour, engineers are wondering just how fast man can fly—whether there is any physiological reason to suppose that the human body cannot stand the strain of speeds much greater than those so far attained. The pilots who took part in the last Schneider Cup race, when the record was broken, felt no discomfort on a straight course apart from the deafening roar of the engines. For a second all became black before their eyes when they swirled around a pylon, but they never lost their muscular sense. Since the stresses set up in the airplane at 400 miles an hour are nine times as great as at 133 miles the racer must of necessity sweep in wide circles. Apart from this, only pilots trained as carefully as prize-fighters can cut corners at high speed. So far there is not the slightest evidence that anything like the ultimate speed limit has been reached. One British engineer who has examined this question with some care even predicts a speed of 740 miles an hour within a generation.

High accelerations are more to be feared than continued high speed. What high acceleration means is driven home when an automobile is started with a lurch. The body is flung against the back of the seat. In a 5000-mile-an-hour rocketship the starting acceleration might be so high that the passengers would be squeezed into a pulp against a vertical partition as if by an invisible hand of gigantic power. But if slow starts are possible, there is no reason for any speed limit on a straightway flight.—New York Times.

With Christmas gone and the New Year here, we can all sit tight and wait for the opening of spring.

If speech was devised for the purpose of concealing thought, why all this trouble to improve its clarity?

Now that the Christmas season is over, it is possible to buy a wearable tie without hunting all over the town.

It is no longer necessary to speculate regarding Japan's intentions in Manchuria. It has done what it intended to do.

After reading about what occurred in Pine River, Minn., we can't help wondering whether some application of the Japanese method of dealing with bandits wouldn't help matters in this country.

Inadvertently, the wife who drew up those forty-seven rules of conduct for her husband, took the surest way of avoiding marital happiness. It is quite as unwise to be too earnest as it is to be too frivolous, and a lot more depressing.

Dr. Ray K. Immel, of the University of Southern California, says that rays and talking pictures are making people speech conscious, which, if true, is bad news. The more "unconscious" a person can be with regard to speech, the better for him and everybody else.

A Dark Cloud Descends
It Surrounds You
But It Always Lifts

By MARSHALL MASLIN

A dark and loathsome cloud came up from nowhere and cast its terrible shadow over all the earth.

And life grew dim before your eyes and you saw shadows wherever you looked. Something fearful flew between you and the sun and joy went out of life.

It was one of those days, one of those weeks, when existence became an unbearable burden. You do not know how it happened. You had intended to be happy, but some little thing went wrong and then everything went wrong all at once.

You began to live in shadows. You lost hope, you lost faith, you lost energy, you lost courage. Everything good seemed to seep away from you and leave you weak as if you had been long in fever. You went around quoting morbid, sad sayings to yourself.

The shadow was on you and in you, and it increased your bitterness when you saw that it did not seem to be on other people, too. They passed you on the street, laughing and eager—and you hated them for their happiness. They seemed so cold, so indifferent. "Nobody cares," you thought to yourself. "Nobody knows how unhappy I am. O, miserable me; O, woe! worthless that I am."

Someone said, "What's the matter with you?" and you answered, "Nothing!" Why bother to say you were miserable, no one would understand.

So you suffered all by yourself in your impenetrable shadows and hated yourself and hated the entire human race.

And then the shadow lifted. Miraculously it was gone. The air was clear, the sky was blue, you could see for miles and miles. You were free again—and your joy was as incomprehensible as your misery had been. Though you didn't know why, people were fun again and their laughter communicated itself to you.

You smiled in the crowd, you were back with the gang of human beings again, as brave as hopeful, as cheerfully ridiculous. The aching tooth was out, the shadowy pain was gone, the shadow was lost in the gay light of the day.

It happened. It will happen again.

The shadow will come. It will go away.

So you will lose hope and you will find it once more.

But why can't we remember, when the shadow is all around us, that it will not last forever?

Budgets For The Entire Family

By MRS. MARY MORTON

In the $700 and $800 Class

Today we study the budget plan for the fortunate people who rank in the $700 and $800 a month class. Budgeting is just as important for them as for those whose income is only a small fraction of those sums.

It is important in that when the salary is large there are so many more demands on it and the scale of living goes up to such an extent that the money appears to melt, unless budgeted, and the family is little better off than are their poorer neighbors.

For the family of five with $700 a month to spend the apportionment is something like this:

Savings .....	$175.00
Food .....	100.00
Shelter .....	125.00
Operating .....	100.00
Clothing .....	75.00
Advancement .....	125.00

Total .....

For the salary of $800 a month, with the same number in the family, the budget reads:

Savings .....	$200.00
Food .....	100.00
Shelter .....	150.00
Operating .....	100.00
Clothing .....	100.00
Advancement .....	150.00

Total .....

Tomorrow we will discuss wise spending of the very tiny salary with which all too many people in our fair land are struggling at the present moment.

The list of books treating of different phases of modern medicine and designed to be read by the patient is steadily increasing. There now is a book covering nearly every class of diseases and explaining in a non-technical way the whys and wherefores of the diagnosis and treatment.

Four recent publications have come to my attention. I mention them for the benefit of any one who may be interested for personal reasons.

"How's Your Blood Pressure," by C. L. Andrews. Published by the MacMillan company. A cheerful and sensible account of this common condition, which is more a natural change of the body than a disease.

"The Lungs," by Lawrence Brown and published by D. Appleton and company. The high reputation of the author assures an excellent presentation of this topic.

"What the Public Should Know About Childbirth," by Walker Bourne Cassett. Published by The Widest company, Minneapolis. Discusses many popular subjects, such as "Maternal Impressions," "Twilight Sleep," "Prenatal Care," "Caesarian Section," etc.

"Conquering Arthritis," by H. M. Margolis, M. D. Published by the MacMillan company. This is quite a departure for book. of this type. It should be popular because there are many people afflicted with chronic joint disease. If all the patients with the disease read the book it will be a best seller.

It can be heartily recommended. The author has had a wide experience. He believes that most cases of chronic arthritis are infectious in origin. His chapter on "Possible Sources of Infection" is therefore of Answer: Vitamin D bread is carefully controlled by the University of Wisconsin alumni committee and has been approved by the American Medical association. It certainly furnishes Vitamin D in an agreeable form. Vitamin D is necessary to health, especially for children. Vitamin D bread can do no harm.

Lovers Separate

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

WHOOPE-TE-DOO GIRL! My, and then, too, your father might what a funny nickname for a girl who cries at the time because she and her boy friend are separated. They all—her sister and her friend and "Whoope-te-doo Girl" and her friend—lived in the same town and were very much in love and happy.

Now the two girls have moved away with their parents and the heroine spends most of her time in tears, according to her letter. What's to be done in such a case? It's not very sporting, for a fact, to shed such "gallons of tears" over the fact that you and your nice friend are separated. Tears never get you anywhere, you know, my dear. They don't make things any better; in fact, they make them worse.

They make your eyes and nose red and your head ache, and if you keep them up long enough they make folk—even very kind-hearted and sympathetic ones—very, very tired, so that they avoid your society.

The best way I know of to stop the deluge is to think how much worse off you might be. For instance, you should see the letters I get, from girls who love certain boys and their love is not reciprocated, or has cooled. Suppose you were in the shoes of such a one. Or "suppose you were separated by so many miles that you couldn't see one another for years—or never! Or suppose you were the kind of girl who never had a lover, and you ate your heart out with longing.

My advice to you is to turn the corners of your mouth up instead of down; to let those tears and laugh because you have such a nice boy friend and you are going to be so happy. Even when things are at their worst, if you take this attitude you won't feel as bad as you would otherwise; and when there are as many things to make you happy as there are in your case, why, it's no trick at all to feel jolly!

Love has had so little freedom in her life that she is bound to enjoy it now, even if it means being a little wild. If you can have patience for awhile maybe she will see how few real good times she gets out of it and be content to take you and your love. Drop the subject for the present.

Gives Advice About Nose Veils

By GLADYS GLAD

Those jaunty little nose veils that Dame Fashion has attached to some of our newest and smartest hats certainly are becoming to many girls. They add a touch of mystery and allure to the wearer. And they also succeed in lending additional attractiveness to the eyes.

These diminutive and filmy veils, however, must be properly adjusted or they're likely to do anything but increase the chicness of a damsel's appearance. I remember seeing a motion picture, not long ago, in which the star wore one of these veils. It was, unfortunately, of a very stiff mesh, and was so poorly arranged that it protruded far beyond her profile. As a result, the effect was almost ludicrous, rather than smart and charming.

Nose veils should be of rather wide mesh, and should not be too stiff to hang gracefully. They fall, as a rule, just below the beginning of the bridge of the nose, although some are a trifle longer. And, while they should be fairly loose, they should be adjusted so that they do not protrude too far beyond the profile.

Not so very many years ago veils were mostly worn by older women only, because they helped to conceal the marks of age stamped on the face. But the chic little nose veils of today conceal next to nothing, and are for young and old alike.

Of course, they are not suited for wear by all women. Type must also be taken into consideration. But for the majority of women they can prove most enhancing. It is the severely plain and simple, the very mannish and tailored, and the robust, athletically inclined, tomboyish types that the filmy, alluring little nose veils would not be very harmoniously suited for wear.

Dot: Milla are hard, white kernels of oil deep under the skin. The quickest and most effective method of eradicating them is by expert manipulation of the electric needle.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

There is nothing better for a man, than that he should eat and drink, and that he should make his soul enjoy good in his labour. This also I saw, that it was from the hand of God.—Ecclesiastes, II, 24.

MOURNERS FEW

The most diabolical of soundrels has passed on. When they buried old man 1931 grief-stricken mourners were few and the crying towels were conspicuously absent.

Although the actuality may remain unchanged for a time, divisions like years, weeks and months are the staunchest allies of hope. Today brings yesterday's oblivion and with the dawn of the today of 1932 hope calls us to blot memories of 1931 from our minds.

Time is the most inexorable of all things. It goes on and on. You can't hurry it nor speed it up nor above all eliminate it. If the latter were true, the 1931 calendars would never have been printed.

If the theory of heredity is not proven in life itself it surely is emphatically set forth in the years. The succeeding year is unmistakably the progeny of its immediate ancestor. 1930 was a doleful period but its offspring heightened the dour characteristics of its parent.

It is hoped though, 1932 will kick over the traces and rebel against family ties.

One shouldn't speak evil of the dead and despite his ill-starred career, 1931 wasn't thrown into the discard without bequeathing something worthwhile.

The departed year, among other things, by its nature betrayed a certain increasing softness in the people. It was a trying period, maybe, but the wailing and moaning were entirely disproportionate to the pain. Unprecedented prosperity and its attendant increase of the precarious material joys was the yardstick by which we gauged our happiness.

The true essentials of well-being, which were ours in 1931 as well as in any other year, were completely overlooked. Health, peace, and safety were enjoyed last year, but they were taken for granted.

Interludes like 1931 strip the dollar-and-cents superficialities from the surface and acquaint us once more with the inner values.

But the future promises much brighter things.

IS THERE A LIMIT?

Now that an airplane has been driven at over 400 miles an hour, engineers are wondering just how fast man can fly—whether there is any physiological reason to suppose that the human body cannot stand the strain of speeds much greater than those so far attained. The pilots who took part in the last Schneider Cup race, when the record was broken, felt no discomfort on a straight course apart from the deafening roar of the engines. For a second all became black before their eyes when they swirled around a pylon, but they never lost their muscular sense. Since the stresses set up in the airplane at 400 miles an hour are nine times as great as at 133 miles the racer must of necessity sweep in wide circles. Apart from this, only pilots trained as carefully as prize-fighters can cut corners at high speed. So far there is not the slightest evidence that anything like the ultimate speed limit has been reached. One British engineer who has examined this question with some care even predicts a speed of 740 miles an hour within a generation.

High accelerations are more to be feared than continued high speed. What high acceleration means is driven home when an automobile is started with a lurch. The body is flung against the back of the seat. In a 5000-mile-an-hour rocketship the starting acceleration might be so high that the passengers would be squeezed into a pulp against a vertical partition as if by an invisible hand of gigantic power. But if slow starts are possible, there is no reason for any speed limit on a straightway flight.—New York Times.

Inadvertently, the wife who drew up those forty-seven rules of conduct for her husband, took the surest way of avoiding marital happiness. It is quite as unwise to be too earnest as it is to be too frivolous, and a lot more depressing.

doubtful border states of Kentucky and Tennessee, but also Florida, North Carolina, Texas and Virginia—an absolutely unheard-of triumph for the G. O. P. up to that time.

Assuming that the Democrats choose a moderately popular candidate for next autumn, there are few folk who believe the Californian can repeat this performance. But never mind that; the first thing for him to make sure of is his renomination.

And there is no denying that there is a good bit of hostility expressed toward his renomination in certain sections—notably in those northern agricultural states where progressivism is rampant. He carried them, too, in 1928, but it is far from safe betting that they will vote even to nominate him again in June of 1932.

The Hoovercratic (in 1928) part of the south and the northern farm belt are alike, then, in showing a drift away from Mr. Hoover in the last three years. The latter probably has drifted back to Jeffersonianism. The northern farm belt, more likely, is simply off the reservation.

But they do differ in this respect, as to the G. O. P.'s June convention: The Republican convention delegates of Florida, Kentucky, North Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia will vote just as enthusiastically in Chicago in June for Mr. Hoover's renomination as they voted in 1928 for his original nomination in Kansas City.

On the other hand, delegates from Nebraska, North and South Dakota, Wisconsin and two or three additional northern farm belt states may fly the coop in June, and vote for some such candidate as Hiram Johnson, Gifford Pinchot or George W. Norris.

Hence Mr. Hoover's G. O. P. national committee recently cut down the representation of the progressive farm states at the Re-

A Dark Cloud Descends
It Surrounds You
But It Always Lifts

By MARSHALL MASLIN

A dark and loathsome cloud came up from nowhere and cast its terrible shadow over all the earth. And life grew dim before your eyes and you saw shadows wherever you looked. Something fearful flew between you and the sun and you went out of life.

It was one of those days, one of those weeks, when existence became an unbearable burden. You do not know how it happened. You had intended to be happy, but some little thing went wrong and then everything went wrong all at once.

You began to live in shadows. You lost hope, you lost faith, you lost energy, you lost courage. Everything good seemed to seep away from you and leave you weak as if you had been long in fever. You went around quivering, morbid, sad sayings to yourself.

The shadow was on you and in you, and it increased your bitterness when you saw that it did not seem to be on other people, too. They passed you on the street, laughing and eager—and you hated them for their happiness. They seemed so cold, so indifferent. "Nobody cares," you thought to yourself. "Nobody knows how unhappy I am. O, miserable me; O, woe! worthless that I am! Someone said, "What's the matter with you?" and you answered, "Nothing!" Why bother to say you were miserable, no one would understand.

So you suffered all by yourself in your impenetrable shadows and hated yourself and hated the entire human race.

And then the shadow lifted. Miraculously it was gone. The air was clear, the sky was blue, you could see for miles and miles. You were free again—and your joy was as incomprehensible as your misery had been. Though you didn't know why, people were fun again and their laughter communicated itself to you.

You smiled in the crowd, you were back with the gang of human beings again, as brave, as hopeful, as cheerfully ridiculous. The aching tooth was out, the nagging pain was gone, the shadow was lost in the gay light of the day.

It happened. It will happen again. The shadow will come. It will go away.

You will lose hope and you will find it once more. But why can't we remember, when the shadow is all around us, that it will not last forever?

publican national convention, and correspondingly increased the representation of the Hoovercratic southern states, on the ground that the latter are entitled to it by the Republican majorities they gave in 1928.

Budgets For The Entire Family

By MRS. MARY MORTON

In the $700 and $800 Class
Today we study the budget plan for the fortunate people who rank in the $700 and $800 a month class. Budgeting is just as important for them as for those whose income is only a small fraction of those sums.

It is important in that when the salary is large there are so many more demands on it and the scale of living goes up to such an extent that the money appears to melt, unless budgeted, and the family is little better off than are their poorer neighbors.

For the family of five with $700 a month to spend the apportionment is something like this:

Savings	$175.00
Food	100.00
Shelter	125.00
Operating	100.00
Clothing	75.00
Advancement	125.00
Total	$700.00

For the salary of $800 a month, with the same number in the family, the budget reads:

Savings	$200.00
Food	100.00
Shelter	150.00
Operating	100.00
Clothing	100.00
Advancement	150.00
Total	$800.00

Tomorrow we will discuss wise spending of the very tiny salary with which all too many people in our fair land are struggling at the present moment.

Science Books Commended

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

The list of books treating of different phases of modern medicine and designed to be read by the patient is steadily increasing. There now is a book covering nearly every class of diseases and explaining in a non-technical way the whys and wherefores of the diagnosis and treatment.

Four recent publications have come to my attention. I mention them for the benefit of any one who may be interested for personal reasons:

"How's Your Blood Pressure," by C. L. Andrews. Published by the MacMillan company. A cheerful and sensible account of this common condition, which is more a natural change of the body than a disease.

"The Lungs," by Lawrence Brown and published by D. Appleton and company. The high reputation of the author assures an excellent presentation of this topic.

"What the Public Should Know About Childbirth," by Walker Bourne Gassett. Published by The Widwest company, Minneapolis. Discusses many popular subjects, such as "Maternal Impressions," "Twilight Sleep," "Prenatal Care," "Caesarian Section," etc.

"Conquering Arthritis," by H. M. Margolis, M. D. Published by the MacMillan company. This is quite a departure for book of this type. It should be popular because there are many people afflicted with chronic joint disease. If all the patients with the disease read the book it will be a best seller.

It can be heartily recommended. The author has had a wide experience. He believes that most cases of chronic arthritis are infectious in origin. His chapter on "Possible Sources of Infection" is therefore of vital interest to anyone who accepts his point of view. And most physicians do accept that point of view.

The chapter on the "Treatment of Chronic Arthritis" is 64 pages in length and discusses: Rest and exercise, diet, drugs, removal of infections, diathermy, massage, electrical treatment heat and light treatments, climate, orthopedic surgery and other forms of treatment, all of which have their place in the management of this many-sided disease.

"Conquering Arthritis" is well written and can be highly recommended.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS

M. M.: "I would like to ask your opinion of eating bread containing Vitamin D. Is it really beneficial to health? Can it in any way cause harm?"

Answer: Vitamin D bread is carefully controlled by the University of Wisconsin alumni committee and has been approved by the American Medical association. It certainly furnishes Vitamin D in an agreeable form. Vitamin D is necessary to health, especially for children. Vitamin D bread can do no harm.

The pamphlets are: "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

Lovers Separate

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

WHOOPEE-DOO GIRL! My, what a funny nickname for a girl who cries at the time because she and her boy friend are separated. They all—her sister and her friend and "Whoopee-do-doo Girl" and her friend—lived in the same town and were very much in love and happy.

Now the two girls have moved away with their parents and heroine spends most of her time in tears, according to her letter. What's to be done in such a case?

It's not very sporting, for a fact, to shed such "gallons of tears" over the fact that you and your nice friend are separated. Tears never get you anywhere, you know, my dear. They don't make things any better; in fact, they make them worse.

They make your eyes and nose red and your head ache, and if you keep them up long enough they make folk—even very kind-hearted and sympathetic ones—very, very tired, so that they avoid your society.

The best way I know of to stop the deluge is to think how much worse off you might be. For instance, you should see the letters I get from girls who love certain boys and their love is not reciprocated, or has cooled. Suppose you were in the shoes of such a one.

Or suppose you were separated by so many miles that you couldn't see one another for years—or never! Or suppose you were the kind of girl who never had a lover and you ate your heart out with longing.

My advice to you is to turn the corners of your mouth up instead of down; to let those tears and laugh because you have such a nice boy friend and you are going to be so happy. Even when things are at their worst, if you take this attitude you won't feel as bad as you would otherwise; and when there are as many things to make you happy as there are in your case, why, it's no trick at all to feel jolly.

and then, too, your father might be out of work, you know, like so many, instead of just having to move to another place. That's another cheering thought.

LOVERS: You have to have witnesses at a wedding; it is not necessary that they know you. They have to be able to testify that they saw the ceremony performed to make it legal. They may be your own ages. If you have something like a birth certificate to show that the girl is of age nothing further is needed.

LITTLE BABE: It is difficult to advise you, dear. I hardly know what you might mean by your question. Such terms are construed in different ways. An occasional kiss or caress is permissible between such good friends, of course.

T. H. E.: Maybe the widow you love has had so little freedom in her life that she is bound to enjoy it now, even if it means being a little wild. If you can have patience for awhile maybe she will see how few real good times she gets out of it and be content to take you and your love. Drop the subject for the present.

Gives Advice About Nose Veils

By GLADYS GLAD

Those jaunty little nose veils that Dame Fashion has attached to some of our newest and smartest hats certainly are becoming to many girls. They add a touch of mystery and allure to the wearer. And they also succeed in lending additional attractiveness to the eyes.

These diminutive and filmy veils, however, must be properly adjusted, or they're likely to do anything but increase the chicness of a damsel's appearance. I remember seeing a motion picture, not long ago, in which the star wore one of these veils. It was, unfortunately, of a very stiff mesh, and was so poorly arranged that it protruded far beyond her profile. As a result, the effect was almost ludicrous, rather than smart and charming.

Nose veils should be of rather wide mesh, and should not be too stiff to hang gracefully. They fall, as a rule, just below the beginning of the bridge of the nose, although some are a trifle longer. And, while they should be fairly loose, they should be adjusted so that they do not protrude too far beyond the profile.

Not so very many years ago veils were mostly worn by older women only, because they helped to conceal the marks of age stamped on the face. But the chic little nose veils of today conceal next to nothing, and are for young and old alike.

Of course, they are not suited for wear by all women. Type must also be taken into consideration. But for the majority of women they can prove most enhancing. It is the severely plain and simple, the robust, athletically inclined, tomboyish types that the filmy, alluring little nose veils would not be very harmoniously suited for wear.

There is only one more thing that you must give attention to if you intend wearing a seductive little nose veil. And that is your make-up. There is no need to intensify the eye make-up. But if a veil is worn, the coloring in the cheeks and lips should be heightened somewhat, so that the face does not appear over-shadowed by the tiny veil.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

Nail Biting
Unhappy: You will have to train yourself not to bite your nails. Use your will power! A bit of tincture of aloes applied to the finger tips will help to break you of this habit.

Milia
Dot: Milia are hard, white kernels of oil deep under the skin. The quickest and most effective method of eradicating them is by expert manipulation of the electric needle.

Red Nose
Frank: A red nose usually results from poor circulation. Take deep breathing exercises each morning. Get plenty of exercise and fresh air. Also, eliminate all highly-seasoned foods and stimulating drinks from your daily menu.

SPORT $NAP $HOTS

FRAMED
by Phil

By popular acclaim, this department is building up a reputation as a renowned fence-sitter. Ordinarily it is our policy to hold aloof from such matters that involve lack of sportsmanship on the part of fans, but this time there is no escape and we find, belatedly it is true, there is no use to straddle the issue of the conduct unbecoming a limited number of spectators at the Xenia-Withrow contest here.

Without elaborating on the details of the incident, the facts being generally known, it may be mentioned that high school officials are justifiably indignant over the whole affair.

It is our understanding that expressions of deepest regret have been, or shortly will be forwarded to Withrow at Cincinnati. One disinterested fan even got the jump on the local school and voluntarily wrote the Cincinnati school, apologizing for the inexcusable demonstration near the end of the game, and voicing his conviction the episode did not accurately represent the attitude of Xenia fandom as a whole.

Athletic relations between Xenia and Withrow have always been cordial, in fact, more friendly than with most other schools, and it is not believed, the regrettable affair will disrupt this relationship.

The local incident, while forgivable, is not forgettable. It tends to give a school and all its fans a black eye elsewhere. It cloaks the community with an unfavorable reputation where sportsmanship is concerned. For several fans to surge out on the playing floor and direct their wrath at mere boys who are members of a visiting high school team, no matter what the provocation, is unwarranted.

It must always be remembered the visiting players and visiting fans are guests, and they should be treated as such under all circumstances. Local fans would expect the same courteous reception away from home.

A year or so ago the Hi-Y organization at Central High had a supply of little cards printed on the subject of "Sportsmanship." These cards, listing a number of suggestions to be remembered, were duly distributed among fans. Apparently this well meant advice was forgotten the other night. Let us suppose so. But to avoid a future repetition of the events of Saturday night, it may be timely to reproduce the legend on the above mentioned little card. Here is what it said:

"SPORTSMANSHIP"
Don't RAZZ Officials.
Be a Sport.
BOOST, Don't KNOCK.
Razzing Shows a Poor Spirit.
Win or Lose, Central Forever.
Coaches and Players Don't Complain.
Why Should You?
The World Admires a Good Loser.
Be an Asset Not a Liability.
ROOT, don't RAZZ.

LOYALTY TO CHRIST URGED BY MINISTER AT PRAYER SERVICE

"Loyalty to the Conquering Christ" was the subject of the Rev. James P. Lytle, pastor of the First U. P. Church, at the second service of Week of Prayer at the First Reformed Church Tuesday evening.

In opening his sermon the Rev. Mr. Lytle declared that Loyalty is the great essential. Jesus desires more than anything else that we should be loyal. He wants adherents in loyalty. The great trouble today is that Christians are more loyal to other organizations and institutions than to Christ and His church. Misguided loyalty is loyalty to any worship—attendance upon services of his church. We should be loyal to the principles of worship. We should be loyal to the Lord's Day which is for the cultivation of the soul life and we should be loyal to the work of Christ. The Rev. Mr. Lytle declared a period of prayer and meditation closed the services.

The Rev. W. N. Shank, pastor of the First M. E. Church, will speak on "The Holy Spirit" Wednesday evening and preceding the service the cooperating ministers are asked to meet at the church at 7:10 o'clock for a prayer service. An offering will be taken at the remainder of the meetings to pay for the expenses of heat and light.

PROFESSOR TARGET OF SUSPECTED BOMB

EASTON, Pa., Jan. 6.—Easton residents and police officials were thrown into high excitement again today when a mysterious package wrapped in brown paper was found ticking loudly on the porch of the home of Professor Herbert A. Lorenz, of the romance language department of Lafayette College, a block from the campus.

Sgt. James Bolan of the police department, took the parcel which he professor excitedly described as a "bomb" to city hall where it was carefully placed in a bucket of water and placed in a secluded spot.

UNCONCERN SCORED IN SERMON MONDAY AT CHURCH SERVICE

"Every person is worth to the kingdom of God just how much God can use him," declared the Rev. C. A. Hutchison, pastor of the M. E. Church, Cedarville, in his sermon on "The Keys of the Kingdom" at revival services at Trinity M. E. Church Tuesday evening.

Dr. Hutchison continued "God isn't going over your head or my head to win people to Christ. It is up to you and to me and Jesus says there is no other way to save people in Xenia except through you. Some folks have the idea that heaven and hell are fixed places. One of the ways by which we bind people is by being unconcerned. Those people who say that all the heaven and hell one has is on earth are not thinking."

Dr. Hutchison then threw a bomb into the services by asking, "Why don't you pray with that woman across the bridge table from you and plead with her for her soul's salvation? Or why don't you ask the person with whom you are dancing to become a Christian? It isn't done that way. We must be sincere. Young people today are looking for sincerity. By our unconcern, by our insincerity and by our refusal to pray we are today binding folks."

There will be special music at the service Wednesday evening preceding the Rev. Mr. Hutchison's sermon on "The Borrowed Axe."

COUNTY FAIR SHOWS PROFIT TREASURER REVEALS IN REPORT

All things considered, including the pinch of agricultural distress, the three-day 1931 Greene County Fair last August was a fairly profitable undertaking, it is indicated in the annual financial report of B. U. Bell, Xenia, treasurer of the Greene County Agricultural Society, which sponsors the yearly exposition.

Attendance and receipts fell off somewhat from the corresponding year, but the net loss in revenue from gate and grandstand receipts was only $613.25 as compared with 1930. An additional loss of $600 was incurred on privilege money, the concessions in the mid-way running less than hitherto. Gate receipts during the three days amounted to $3,285.90.

Premiums with a total value of $9,041.79, including $7,759.89 in all departments, $800 for club work, $110 for the team pulling contests and $371.90 in Grand prizes, were distributed by the fair board, a remainder of only $300 from 1930.

During last year the annual allowance made by the county and state to the fair board was cut from $6,500 and $3,500.

The financial report discloses that receipts of the fair board aggregated $18,969.88 in 1931 and debts totalled $18,946.53. The board wound up the year with a treasury balance of $23.35 as compared with a bank balance of $35.28 December 12, 1930.

XENIA AUTO AGENCY HAS CHANGED HANDS IS ANNOUNCED HERE

The Studebaker automobile agency at the Greene County Hardware Co., E. Main St., has changed hands with the announcement that Harry C. Sutton and his son, Bernard, managers of the auto department for the last eight years, have relinquished the agency to C. C. McFarland, this city.

Mr. MacFarland, formerly associated with D. L. Purdom as local agents for the Pontiac and Oakland line of autos until about six months ago, became manager of the Studebaker agency the first of the year.

In addition to the regular line of Studebaker autos and trucks, International trucks and the Willys-Overland cars, the agency will also handle the new Rockne "65" and "75" autos, also a Studebaker output.

Harry and Bernard Sutton announce plans to locate in Springfield and take over the Studebaker auto agency in that city. A lease they have obtained on a sales room at 110 W. Main St. in the Greenwall Bldg. in Springfield becomes effective January 15. Meanwhile the prospective sales room is being redecorated and otherwise altered.

Winkler recovers bank robbery loot

CHICAGO, Jan. 6.—After a year of nation-wide searching, officials of the Lincoln National Bank and Trust Co. returned to Nebraska today with $583,000 in negotiable and non-registered securities.

The bonds are a part of the loot of almost $3,000,000 taken from the bank by a band of machine gunners in a spectacular holdup in September, 1930.

Gus Winkler, Capone ally and a pal of Fred Burke, notorious bank robber, was thought to be the meddler through whom the bonds were recovered.

Winkler is said to have assured officials that approximately $2,000,000 worth of other bonds, registered and non-negotiable, were destroyed by the robbers, permitting issuance of substitute certificates.

UNCONCERN SCORED IN SERMON MONDAY AT CHURCH SERVICE

"Every person is worth to the kingdom of God just how much God can use him," declared the Rev. C. A. Hutchison, pastor of the M. E. Church, Cedarville, in his sermon on "The Keys of the Kingdom" at revival services at Trinity M. E. Church Tuesday evening.

Dr. Hutchison continued "God isn't going over your head or my head to win people to Christ. It is up to you and to me and Jesus says there is no other way to save people in Xenia except through you. Some folks have the idea that heaven and hell are fixed places. One of the ways by which we bind people is by being unconcerned. Those people who say that all the heaven and hell one has is on earth are not thinking."

Dr. Hutchison then threw a bomb into the services by asking, "Why don't you pray with that woman across the bridge table from you and plead with her for her soul's salvation? Or why don't you ask the person with whom you are dancing to become a Christian? It isn't done that way. We must be sincere. Young people today are looking for sincerity. By our unconcern, by our insincerity and by our refusal to pray we are today binding folks."

There will be special music at the service Wednesday evening preceding the Rev. Mr. Hutchison's sermon on "The Borrowed Axe."

COUNTY FAIR SHOWS PROFIT TREASURER REVEALS IN REPORT

All things considered, including the pinch of agricultural distress, the three-day 1931 Greene County Fair last August was a fairly profitable undertaking, it is indicated in the annual financial report of B. U. Bell, Xenia, treasurer of the Greene County Agricultural Society, which sponsors the yearly exposition.

Attendance and receipts fell off somewhat from the corresponding year, but the net loss in revenue from gate and grandstand receipts was only $613.25 as compared with 1930. An additional loss of $600 was incurred on privilege money, the concessions in the mid-way running less than heretofore. Gate receipts during the three days amounted to $3,285.90.

Premiums with a total value of $9,041.79, including $7,759.89 in all departments, $500 for club work, $110 for the team pulling contests and $371.90 in Grange prizes, were distributed by the fair board, a reduction of only $300 from 1930.

During last year the annual allowance made by the county and state to the fair board was cut from $6,500 and $3,500.

The financial report discloses that receipts of the fair board aggregated $18,969.88 in 1931 and debts totaled $18,946.53. The board wound up the year with a treasury balance of $23.35 as compared with a bank balance of $35.28 December 12, 1930.

The Studebaker automobile agency at the Greene County Hardware Co., E. Main St., has changed hands with the announcement that Harry C. Sutton and his son, Bernard, managers of the auto department for the last eight years, have relinquished the agency to C. C. McFarland, this city.

Mr. MacFarland, formerly associated with D. L. Purdom as local agents for the Pontiac and Oakland line of autos until about six months ago, became manager of the Studebaker agency the first of the year.

In addition to the regular line of Studebaker autos and trucks, International trucks and the Willys-Overland cars, the agency will also handle the new Rockne "65" and "75" autos, also a Studebaker output.

Harry and Bernard Sutton announce plans to locate in Springfield and take over the Studebaker auto agency in that city. A lease they have obtained on a sales room at 110 W. Main St. in the Greenwall Bldg., in Springfield becomes effective January 15. Meanwhile the prospective sales room is being redecorated and otherwise altered.

WINKLER RECOVERS
BANK ROBBERY LOOT

CHICAGO, Jan. 6.—After a year of nation-wide searching, officials of the Lincoln National Bank and Trust Co. returned to Nebraska today with $53,000 in negotiable and non-negotiable securities.

The bonds are a part of the loot of almost $3,000,000 taken from the bank by a band of machine gunners in a spectacular holdup in September, 1930.

Gus Winkler, Capone ally and a pal of Fred Burke, notorious bank robber, was thought to be the medium through whom the bonds were recovered.

Winkler is said to have assured officials that approximately $2,000,000 worth of other bonds, registered and non-negotiable, were destroyed by the robbers, permitting issuance of substitute certificates.

CREDIT PROPOSAL IS BEFORE SENATE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—President Hoover's proposal to create a huge government credit corporation for strengthening the nation's banking institutions came before the senate today with administration leaders predicting passage within three days. Administration spokesmen in the house see early approval.

The bill would put $500,000,000 federal capital into the corporation and authorize a $1,500,000,000 "reconstruction" bond issue, guaranteed by the treasury. This fund would be available for loans to banks, insurance companies, steam railroads, interstate electric lines and "bona-fide" financial institutions.

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—Wall Street and the stock market extended a greeting to the President's reconstruction financing program today by marking up prices of the active stocks 1 to 4 points, with an occasional 6 to 10-point spurt in the specialties.

WHEN

do you want
those customers?

THIS is no time for "prestige" advertising. The job today is to sell goods.

When do you want to sell yours—next month, or next season, or right now?

If you're in a hurry—and this is certainly no time for leisurely sales tactics—use newspaper advertising! You'll get your answer to any selling proposition promptly from newspaper readers—while it's still time to make changes if your appeal doesn't "click."

For getting customers quickly and testing advertising economically, nothing has yet been invented that can beat a good daily newspaper!

Classified Advertising Brings Results

Let THE GAZETTE classified advertising section help you in your want problems.

Just telephone numbers 800 or 111 and ask for an ad taker. A trained ad writer will be glad to assist you in preparing your copy in order to obtain the best results.

All advertising copy, however, should be in the GAZETTE office not later than 3:30 a. m. of the day it is intended for publication. This guarantees publication on that day and insures proper set-up for your copy.

Errors, typographical or otherwise, will be corrected if notice is given immediately after the first insertion. The GAZETTE cannot be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion unless proper notice has been given before the next insertion.

The GAZETTE must reserve the right to restrict all advertisements to proper classification, style and type and to edit or reject any advertisement.

Boat Club Harmonizing Ears Singer Radio Job

By MILDRED MASON

A bit of extemporaneous harmonizing while sitting on the dock of the Quentico Boat Club in Cincinnati, cost Jack Curran, popular Irish tenor of the WLW studios his one only hobby. Until that moment singing had been only a hobby, but it happened that the conductor of the Hyde Park Opera Club heard him then and started him on the road to a professional singer.

He sang with this club for a short time and then studied in Cincinnati and later in New York City. Later he studied abroad in Paris and London. Since joining the staff of WLW he has won wide popularity with his radio audience. He may be heard in broadcasts with Murray Horton's Orchestra every day at 10:15 a. m. and 4 p. m. with the Bubble Blowers on Tuesday at 8:30 p. m. or with William Steens and his orchestra in a broadcast over WLW and the NBC network every Friday night at 12:15 o'clock.

Start Literary Series.

Jack Foster, radio columnist of the New York World-Telegram, will act as master of ceremonies in a series of literary programs to be broadcast over an NBC network each Thursday at 3:15 p. m. starting this week. Foster will introduce "Thomas L. Foster, president of the Book League of America, in the first of the series. Stations to carry the program are not listed.

"Bosco" To Talk.

Fred McAlpin, Hollywood actor, has one of the strangest jobs in the movies—he's the voice of Bosco, the star of the animated cartoon series "Looney Tunes." As a feature of the "Radio News" of Hollywood this week Mr. McAlpin will take his radio audience on a tour of the cartoon studio and explain the rooms in which Bosco is created, filmed and from which he merges as a definite screen personality. This feature is heard through WLW Thursday evening at 6:30 o'clock.

Lois Moran Is Guest.

Lois Moran, favorite of the stage and screen, will appear with Rudy Valle and his Connecticut Yankees during their broadcast Thursday evening at 8 o'clock over an NBC network through WSAI, Cincinnati. Miss Moran, who is starring in the Gershwin-Kaufman musical success at present, will sing three popular numbers on the program.

Present New "Hit."

"Love Is Sweeping the Country" from "Of Thee I Sing" George Gershwin's musical play about the life in the national capital, will be the featured orchestral number on a program to be broadcast over an NBC network through WKRC, Cincinnati, Thursday at 10 p. m. This newest Gershwin number was warmly received during the try-outs of "Of Thee I Sing."

Boat Club Harmonizing Earnings Singer Radio Job

By MILDRED MASON

A bit of extemporaneous harmonizing one summer's evening while sitting on the dock of the Quentico Boat Club in Cincinnati, cost Jack Curren, popular Irish tenor of the WLW studios his one only hobby. Until that moment singing had been only a hobby, but it happened that the conductor of the Hyde Park Opera Club heard him then and started him on the road to a professional singer.

He sang with this club for a short time and then studied in Cincinnati and later in New York City. Later he studied abroad in Paris and London. Since joining the staff of WLW he has won wide popularity with his radio audience. He may be heard in broadcasts with Murray Horton's Orchestra every day at 10:15 a. m. and 4 p. m. with the Bubble Blowers on Tuesday at 8:30 p. m. or with William Stoess and his orchestra in a broadcast over WLW and the NBC network every Friday night at 12:15 o'clock.

Start Literary Series.

Jack Foster, radio columnist of the New York World-Telegram, will act as master of ceremonies in a series of literary programs to be broadcast over an NBC network each Thursday at 3:15 p. m. starting this week. Foster will introduce Thomas L. Stix, president of the Book League or America, in the first of the series. Stations to carry the program are not listed.

"Bosco" To Talk.

Fred McAlpin, Hollywood actor, has one of the strangest jobs in the movies—he's the voice of Bosco, the star of the animated cartoon series "Looney Tunes." As a feature of the "Radio News- reel of Hollywood" this week Mr. McAlpin will take his radio audience on a tour of the cartoon world which he created, filmed and from which he merges as a definite screen personality. This feature is heard through WLW Thursday evening at 6:30 o'clock.

Lois Moran Is Guest.

Lois Moran, favorite of the stage and screen, will appear with Rudy Valle and the Connecticut Yankees during their broadcast Thursday evening at 8 o'clock over an NBC network through WSAI, Cincinnati. Miss Moran, who is starring in the Gershwin-Kaufman musical success at present, will sing three popular numbers on the program.

Present New "Hit."

"Love Is Sweeping the Country" from "Of Thee I Sing." George Gershwin's musical play about the life in the national capital, will be the featured orchestral number on a program to be broadcast over an NBC network through WKRC, Cincinnati, Thursday at 10 p. m. This newest Gershwin number was warmly received during the try-outs of "Of Thee I Sing."

Lipstick Girl

By EDNA ROBB WEBSTER

Author of "DAD'S GIRL," "JORETTA" and "LOVE PREFERRED"

A Romance of a Little Beauty
RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION, INC.

READ THIS FIRST:

Marcia Moyer who has worked in the cosmetic department of the largest store in Mitchellfield, does her work so well that she is given an opportunity to travel all over the country to demonstrate beauty products for a New York company. She leaves Ted Stanton in Mitchellfield, who has loved her for always, but she is seeking romance and wants to see the world. In Chicago, the district manager, Ed Haley, takes her to dinner and they become better acquainted. In the meantime an airplane made a forced landing near Mitchellfield, and the pilot meets Vivian, Marcia's sister, to whom he is attracted at once. Haley is a pleasant, sportsman type of fellow whom Marcia likes very much but is not particularly interested. A letter from Ted explains that the strange aviator has engaged him as a mechanic on his regular route from St. Louis to Chicago. Ted goes to Springfield to work on the plane while Eugene visits Vivian. Marcia attends a famous club with Haley.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 15

IT WAS LATE on the following day when Marcia awoke. She had been aroused by the maid trying her key in the lock for perhaps the dozenth time. So strong was the habit of twenty-one years of waking in the same room, and so new the novelty of strange walls for a morning greeting, that Marcia still was startled for an instant before she could remember how her existence had changed. Having recalled where she was and why, and that there was no necessity for haste on this morning, she smiled lazily, stretched her arms up, and propped them under her head, while her thoughts darted pleasantly over the events of the past ten days, like spots of dappled sunshine and shadow darting over the ground under a wind-blown tree.

Her heart swelled a little with pleased pride over the results of her work, and was glad for the kind admiration of Ed Haley. The world was good, life was a gladness thing. Her thoughts ran ahead, dancing into the future, joyously unafraid. Her schedule had been planned thoroughly. Several northern Indiana cities, then into Michigan north to Detroit down into Ohio and toward the east. Then New York. She was impatient already for the intervening weeks to be gone. New York was one of the outstanding points in her quest—New York, the Mecca of adventure, pleasure and fortune seekers.

The thought so stimulated her that she sprang out of bed suddenly, and dashed into the bath for a cold shower, then dressed leisurely and went out for breakfast. Even if her expense accounts were large, Marcia did not think of her needs in elastic terms. She lived exactly as she would have permitted herself to do on her own resources. She was too practical, and had practiced economy too long to nonchalantly order breakfast in the hotel dining room, where a serving of bacon alone was one dollar, when the white-tiled restaurant across the street featured a full menu for thirty-five cents. It was not planned that she should stop at the most exclusive hotels. First-rate commercial houses came within her allowance, ample provision for meals, and first-rate traveling accommodations that did not include luxuries. She was satisfied.

Having breakfast, and scanned the news of the day, she walked over to the lake, and sat on the beach for awhile, watching the restless, reaching fingers of the waves vainly snatching at the shore; and the restless, seeking throngs of people, walking or motoring in all directions, and almost as vainly snatching at life and pleasure. Then she went back to her room and wrote letters. One to the family, one to Ted, and one to Lora, that would suffice for all of the girls at the store. All three of them carried her happiness between the lines.

To Ted she sent her unqualified approval of his new venture, and asked for more details of his employer, who appeared to be interested in Vivian, V. herself, had not written her about the stranger, and she was eager to know all about him. "Take care of them all for me, Ted," she appealed to him, quite as naturally as if he were obligated to serve her.

Ted read the implication between the lines, eagerly, and blessed her for the trust. He was elated over the new work, too. The responsibility of the big trimotored plane thrilled him immensely. He always worked on it on the return trip from the south. He had ventured to learn more about the business of those weekly flights, but Campeau had offered little information. He worked for a Canadian firm that carried an important business in St. Louis. That seemed to be enough explanation for his new mechanic; and Ted was not inquisitive. He knew that another mechanic overhauled the plane at the other end of the route, and he wondered vaguely, why Campeau hadn't a mechanic flying with him. He was always alone. But it was not his affair, Ted concluded reasonably.

Vivian learned little more about the aviator's business affairs, but that was explained by her interests in the man rather than his business. On his second visit to Mitchellfield, he had taken her to dinner at the hotel, and the town expressed its divided opinions on the following day. That part of the populace which sympathized with romance, remarked that the ywere a striking pair: Vivian's pallid blondness, and the aviator's prominent Latin appearance. Those who scorned such frivolous thoughts, wondered what Ada Moyer meant, by permitting her daughters to take up with every stranger that dropped into town; they prophesied that no good would come to them by it. Rather, they hoped for the contrary; if, for no other reason than the satisfaction of nodding, "I told you so!"

But Vivian laughed at their provincial concern, and snapped her fingers at the suspicious. She was fascinated by Eugene Campeau. He had come to her out of the night sky, which made it all the more thrilling.

Seated across the table with her at the Prairie Inn, he had said, "You must be one of those 'flowers that are born to blush unseen, and waste their sweetness on the desert air.' Just to think that if there no airplanes, if I were not a pilot, if I did not pass over this place on my route, if I had not had engine trouble right above it, and if I had not landed safely; if I had not found Stanton to help me, and if he had not brought you along to see the wreck—that is too many 'ifs,' he sighed. "They stifle me! How they managed to be conquered, I marvel. But not the way I marvel at you, dear!" His eyes possessed her fresh, vivid loveliness that had scarcely been touched by men's glances.

Vivian flushed with confusion. Her young sophistication wilted in the arms of his unreserved experience. She had been more sheltered than had Marcia. Mitchellfield school boys, who fluctuated between imminent manhood and youthful simplicity had been the extent of her own experience. She thought about Marcia now, and wished for her wisdom.

"But you haven't seen my sister, Marcia," Mr. Campeau said. "If she were here, she would have gone with Ted and Dave to rescue you, and she would be sitting here across the table from you now, instead of me." At least she was sure of herself when she talked about Marcia, and it provided an answer that was intended to discourage his extravagant comments.

His black eyes penetrated hers for emphasis to his reply. "Remember, my dear, you are not the first beautiful girl I have known. Perhaps there are others like your sister, Marcia—but there never could be another like you. I am going to fly away with you. When will you go?"

"She was both alarmed and enchanted. 'Don't be absurd, please. This is only the second time you have seen me. You don't know me, even.'"

"Better than you think, but not well enough. And how else shall I know you, if I do not take you away with me?"

"Well, I'll be right here in Mitchellfield any time you happen to drop down. No chance of my getting away so soon."

"Then you will let me see you when I do come here?"

"No reason why I shouldn't, I guess."

By that time she would have gone to bed, anxiously awake, and listening for the droning salute of the plane, knowing that he looked down where she lay and thought of her.

Her hungry youth feasted upon the romance of it. Incredible as it seemed to her that this knight of the skies should seek her out of all the world, the fact hypnotized her, and governed all the moments of her days. She confided in her mother, with cherished reservations; and wrote to Marcia about her sky lover, with broad omissions.

FARMERS TO ATTEND ACCOUNT SCHOOL AT FARM BUREAU HERE

Approximately fifty Greene County farmers who have kept farm account records during the past year will analyze their business at the annual farm account summary school at the Farm Bureau office, Thursday, January 7.

The school will begin at 10 a. m. and last until 3 p. m., and each farmer will work out certain factors that affect farm earnings such as: return per dollar's worth of seed fed; milk sales per cow; egg sales per hen, and crop yields. Each farmer will be able to compare the figures on his farm with averages for all farms. While he will have the averages for other farms he will not have the figures of any other individual farmer.

J. C. Neff, farm management specialist of Ohio State University will assist in the summary and analysis and discuss management problems. According to County Agent Drake the farm business analysis report which was prepared from the 1930 Greene County farm account records showed that the five most profitable farms averaged $1338 operator's labor income, while the five least profitable averaged $195 operator's income. The more profitable farms averaged 117 acres as compared with 120 acres for the least profitable group of farms. In accounting for the difference in earnings of the two groups of farms it was found that the more profitable farms excelled in yield per acre of all the different crops. Their corn yield was 6.9 bushels per acre greater, oats 10.1 bushels per acre more, wheat 3.8 bushels more, hay 0.27 tons more and potatoes forty-eight bushels more per acre than the least profitable farms. The better farms averaged $45 crop value per acre while the less profitable farms averaged but $21.80 crop value per acre.

The livestock on the most profitable farms was more efficient as indicated by the fact that the return per dollar's worth of feed on those farms was $1.37 as compared with $.03 for the least profitable group. The operators of the most profitable farms sold $58 more milk per cow, $15 more cream per cow and 66 cents more eggs per hen than the operators of the least profitable group of farms.

These farmers kept a record of their receipts and expenditures plus as inventory at the beginning and end of the year in a simple twenty-eight page farm account book.

POSTAL RECEIPTS DECLINE FOR YEAR REPORT INDICATES

Postal receipts at the Xenia Post Office during the year 1931 totalled $12,072.99 as compared with $43,246.81 the preceding year, a slump of $1,172.82, according to Postmaster C. S. Frazer.

Revenue was running well ahead of 1930 until October of last year when receipts dropped sharply and brought about the reduction for the year as a whole, he said. The postmaster pointed out that, as compared with the corresponding months a year ago, receipts decreased about $700 in October, $500 in November and $700 in December.

The Xenia office, however, was in no danger of losing its classification as a first-class office. The requirement for first classification is that yearly receipts must aggregate $40,000 or better.

Postmaster Frazer said that, inasmuch as other postmasters over the country are not required to submit reports to his office, he has no way of knowing whether any of the village post offices throughout Greene County slipped in their classification, owing to probable decreased revenue, in 1931.

COMMANDMENTS

Mrs. Rebecca Ross, 24-year-old Teenack, N. J., school teacher, recited forty-seven commandments in a Camden court that caused her husband, Albert Ross, to remain a "kissless bridegroom" because he refused to obey them. Mrs. Ross, a minister's daughter, who stated she no longer loved her mate because he contested her annulment suit, wrote the commandments "to put our marriage on a business basis." One demand was that Ross be getting $10,000 at 50.

"NOT WED," SAYS AL SMITH'S SON

Walter Smith, youngest son of former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, has denied that he is married to Miss Florence Watson, pretty 22-year-old stenographer of Schenectady. Young Smith and Miss Watson are shown together here on the beach at Southampton, L. I., last summer.

It is not required that pupils attend all three classes every evening unless they desire to complete the course and receive a diploma by finishing the required work in two years.

The classes are open to any one in the county over 15 years of age. The only cost will be a registration fee of $1.00 and text books. There will be no tuition charge since all of the teachers are volunteering their services and the city school board has granted the use of the school.

Light up . . . Convince Yourself that Chesterfields Satisfy

FLIP OPEN a pack of Chesterfields! Help yourself to a cigarette . . . Light up . . . and let's get the facts.

Mister . . . you're dead right. They're milder! And when the cool, fresh Chesterfield smoke hits the taste-spot . . . there's no question about it . . . they do taste better!

It's no secret in tobacco circles that Chesterfield buys the finest tobaccos that grow . . . Turkish and Domestic . . . sun-ripened, mellow, pure!

Chesterfields are blended first . . . then cross-blended . . . to make them milder . . . and milder still! There's no mistaking that rare balance of flavor built up by

Cross-Blending. You enjoy it in every fragrant puff!

Even the cigarette paper is different. Cleaner, whiter, tasteless . . . the purest that money can buy.

Listen, smokers . . . this is straight. You can't put taste in a cigarette . . . unless quality goes in, too.

You can taste the goodness in Chesterfields . . . actually tell the difference. But light up . . . and convince yourself.

Pass your verdict on Chesterfield's Radio Program, too! Nat Shilkret's 35-piece Orchestra with Alex Gray, soloist, are on the Columbia Network every night except Sunday, at 10:30 E. S. T.
